

Institutional Distinctiveness

The college has a clear focus on providing education and development opportunities to socially, financially, and culturally weaker sections of society, particularly Muslims.

Key Features

- Centralized Admission Process: The College operates a centralized admission process for 3-year and 5-year law courses, ensuring that students from the surrounding areas are accommodated.
- Community Engagement: The College is situated in a poor and middle-class neighborhood, allowing it to cater to the needs of local students.
- Support for Weaker Sections: The college provides various forms of support, including prizes, scholarships, and financial assistance, to students from weaker sections of society.
- Teacher-Student Engagement: Teachers contribute to a poor fund to sponsor the education of needy students, demonstrating a strong commitment to student welfare.
- Parental Involvement: The College involves parents in their children's growth and progress, recognizing the importance of parental support in student success.
- Technology-Enabled Learning: The College provides free Wi-Fi to all students, ensuring that they have access to technology-enabled learning resources.

Best Practices

- Organizing various activities to engage students from weaker sections of society
- Providing financial assistance and scholarships to needy students
- Involving parents in student growth and progress
- Offering technology-enabled learning resources to all students
